This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Approved, Feb. 26, 1872.

DANA LIBRARY, CAMBRIDGE:

ITS HISTORY.

THE Dana Library had its origin in the Cambridge Athenæum, which was incorporated in February, 1849, for the purpose, as is stated in its charter, "of establishing and maintaining in the City of Cambridge a lyceum, public library, reading-room, lectures on scientific and literary subjects, and for promoting such other kindred objects as the members of the corporation shall from time to time deem advisable and proper."

In October, 1850, a lot of land, containing ten thousand square feet, and situated on the corner of Main and Pleasant Streets, in Cambridgeport, was presented to the corporation by Mr. Edmund T. Dana, of Cambridge, and accepted at a legal meeting held on the twenty-fifth of that month. The deed of gift contained the following conditions: 1st. That the corporation should, within two years, erect upon the land, and complete, so as to be fit for occupation, a building suitable for the purposes of the Cambridge Athenæum, as set forth in the act whereby the same was incorporated. 2d. That the land and building (with the exception of the lower story and cellar of the building, which might be used for other purposes) should be used for ever for the purposes of a lyceum, public library, reading-room, lectures on scientific and literary subjects, and for promoting other kindred objects, as set forth in the Act of Incorporation.

In the following year an edifice, named the "Athenæum," was erected upon the land presented by Mr. Dana, at a cost of about $18,000; it was dedicated and opened to the public in November, 1851. It appears, then, that one of the chief objects of this corporation in obtaining a charter, and of Mr. Dana in his gift of land to the corporation, was the establishment and maintenance in the City of Cambridge of a Public Library. A reading-room, which was also contemplated, was abandoned, after trial, for want of support.

In April, 1855, the Directors received official notice that the late Mr. James Brown, of Watertown, had bequeathed books to the value of $1000 to the Athenæum, and had directed his executors to purchase and deliver the same, agreeably to a list to be furnished by the Directors.

Immediate measures were taken to establish the contemplated Library. A commodious room was set apart and furnished in the Athenæum building; a code of Regulations was adopted; and a Catalogue was prepared and printed of the books received from the bequest of Mr. Brown, and of the few volumes contributed from other sources. The cost of printing the Catalogue, and the other incidental expenses, were defrayed by a timely donation of $250, made for that purpose by the executors of the will of the late Mr. Thomas Dowse, of Cambridge. After various delays incident to such undertakings, the Library was opened for the delivery of books in November, 1857. Miss C. F. Orne was appointed Librarian. According to the Regulations, any person residing in Cambridge, known to the Librarian, or recommended by any citizen thus known, was entitled to the use of the Library, upon the payment of one dollar per annum,* and subscribing a promise to comply with the regulations adopted for its management.

In March, 1858, the Athenæum Corporation disposed of its real estate and personal property to the City of Cambridge. The Library was also transferred to the City, the City obligating itself to contribute not less than $300 per annum, for the term of fifteen years, for its support and increase, and to maintain it for ever for the use of the inhabitants of Cambridge.

* This payment was dispensed with by vote of the Trustees in March, 1874, and the Library made entirely free.

In consideration of this obligation assumed by the City, Mr. Dana released the Athenæum Corporation from the conditions contained in his deed of gift. The "Athenæum" thenceforth became the "City Hall," and the "Athenæum Library," now the property of the City, received the name of the "Dana Library."

The intentions of Mr. Dana in relation to the Library, which bears his name, are evident from the following clause, being clause No. 23, of his last will and testament: —

"I give to Edmund T. Hastings and to William W. Wellington, and to the survivor of them, fifteen thousand dollars, in trust, to appropriate the same in such manner as I may by any instrument in writing under my hand appoint."

In a separate instrument, bearing the same date as the will, the testator did direct as follows: —

"To Edmund T. Hastings and William W. Wellington, or whosoever else may execute the trust created by the twenty-third clause of my will:

"The sum of fifteen thousand dollars, bequeathed by the said twenty-third clause, is to be paid over, if and whenever my trustees or trustee shall deem it expedient to do so, to the City of Cambridge, to be held by the said City in trust, as an entire fund, the income thereof to be appropriated annually, for ever, to the increase and support of the Library of the Cambridge Athenæum: provided, however, that if and whenever my said trustees or trustee shall be of opinion that it is not expedient that the said sum of fifteen thousand dollars should be so appropriated, the same to be paid over to my heirs at law; and provided, further, that the said capital sum be paid over, either to said City of Cambridge, or to my heirs at law, within three years from my decease.

EDM. T. DANA."

The Trustees appointed by the will, in an instrument signed by them and transmitted to the City Council, signified their intention to pay this sum of fifteen thousand dollars to the City of Cambridge, whenever they should receive it from Mr. Dana's executor.

It unfortunately happened that the instrument referred to in Mr. Dana's will and copied above, though signed by Mr. Dana, was not duly attested. It was therefore contended by the residuary legatees, "that, by the twenty-third clause in the will, nothing passed to the City of Cambridge, the same not being named as legatee; and it not being competent for a testator, by a duly executed will, to create for himself a power to dispose of his estate to legatees by another instrument not duly executed as a will or codicil." The case was brought, by the administrator with the will annexed, before the Supreme Court of this State, which, after a full hearing, decided that the twenty-third clause in the will, with the unattested instrument signed by Mr. Dana, did not "create a valid bequest to the City of Cambridge."

Thus were the generous intentions of Mr. Dana frustrated; and the munificent donation, which he designed for the Library, passed into the hands of his residuary legatees.

The Library contains, at present, eight thousand one hundred and twenty-seven volumes. It is dependent, for its future support and increase, on the annual appropriations of the City Council, and the continued liberality of the citizens.

From the establishment of this Library in 1857 to the present time the books were counted by continuous numbers, from one upward to thousands, and placed promiscuously upon the shelves. Of course this arrangement allowed of no classification by subjects; for a book that was added to the Library at any time was placed by the side of the book previously added, although the subjects of the two might be wholly unlike: in the best libraries this system is now generally discarded. The Dana Library has been entirely rearranged, and classified according to the plan now so highly approved and adopted by the leading public libraries of our country. And, although the plan is not here carried so fully into detail as in many libraries, yet it is believed to be sufficiently so, to meet the requirements of the average reader.

SEPTEMBER, 1875.

ORDINANCE

OF THE

SECT. 4. Said Board of Trustees shall meet and organize as soon as may be; may choose one of their number Secretary; and three members of said Board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business; they shall choose forthwith, and thereafter annually in the month of January, a suitable person to be Librarian, who shall be removable at the pleasure of the Board, and shall receive such compensation as the Trustees may from time to time determine.

The Trustees shall expend all moneys presented to the Library, or appropriated by the City Council, for the purchase of books, or the improvement of the Library; they may establish such fees for the use of said Library, and shall make and publish such needful By-Laws and Regulations, as shall extend the benefits of the institution as widely as practicable throughout the community; and all moneys received for the use of the Library shall be paid quarterly into the City Treasury.

SECT. 6. The Trustees of the Dana Library shall present to the City Council annually, in the month of December, a report of all their acts, doings, and proceedings, and a statement of the condition of the Library, the number of books added during the year, with an accurate account of all receipts and expenditures, together with any other information or suggestions they may deem desirable.

SECT. 7. No money shall be paid from the City Treasury on account of the Library, except by order of the Trustees, and in pursuance of an order signed by the Mayor; and in no case shall the amount drawn exceed the amount appropriated for the Library.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

I. ANY person residing in the City of Cambridge, above fourteen years of age, who is known to the Librarian, or who may be recommended by any citizen, shall be entitled to the use of the Library, upon subscribing a promise to comply with such rules as may be adopted for its management.

II. The Library shall be open for the delivery of books daily, from 2 to 8 o'clock P.M., Sundays and legal holidays excepted.

III. Subscribers shall be allowed to take one volume at a time, and to retain the same one or two weeks, according to the class to which it belongs. Any book retained two weeks beyond the time allowed, shall be sent for by the Librarian, and the expense of obtaining it shall be paid by the delinquent. No person owing a fine shall receive books from the Library until the same is paid. Books will not be exchanged on the day they are issued. One day at least must elapse between the issue and the return, of a book, provided another be wanted.

IV. Every person entitled to the use of the Library shall receive a printed slip on which must be entered the shelf number of the book that is desired; and the presentation of this slip shall be the ONLY mode of obtaining any book.

V. To secure as far as possible equal advantages to all, any person keeping a book longer than the time allowed, shall pay a fine of two cents per day, according to the class to which the book may belong, for each day until the book is returned.

VI. Books that are of a rare and costly character, or from their size are unsuitable for general circulation, shall not be taken from the Library, unless by written consent of a majority of the Trustees. Persons entitled to the use of the Library may receive such books for consultation in the Rooms while the Library is open; and the Librarian shall make an entry of the withdrawal and return of all books so taken. Any person neglecting to return a book thus temporarily consulted, to the Librarian, shall pay the same fine as for a week's detention beyond the time prescribed by the Rules.*

VII. All injury to books beyond reasonable wear, and all books lost, shall be made good, to the satisfaction of the Trustees, by the person liable. Every book detained more than four weeks shall be deemed as lost. Writing on books, even for corrections of the press, is UNCONDITIONALLY FORBIDDEN. (See the law on the back of the title-page.)

VIII. No person, having a book from the Library, shall lend it to any one not a member of the same household.

IX. No person will be allowed, under any circumstances, to take from the Rooms, any newspaper or periodical, unless the same is upon the Catalogue, and issued as prescribed by Rule No. IV.

X. All persons will be required to conduct themselves quietly while in the Library Room, and no conversation will be permitted in the Room. No person, unless officially connected with the Library, will be allowed access to the books on the shelves.

XI. Any person abusing the privilege of the Library, by a violation of these regulations, or in any other way, shall be immediately reported to the Trustees, who may, if they think the case requires it, exclude such person for a time, or permanently, from the use of the Library, according to the nature of the offence.

* The class of books to which this rule applies are marked "R. L." (Reference Library) in the Catalogue.

DUTIES OF THE LIBRARIAN.

THE Librarian shall, under the Trustees, have charge of the Room, Library, and all connected therewith, and be responsible for due care in keeping the same.

He shall in person, or by an assistant, attend during the time of the delivery of books, and shall perform such duties in connection with the Library, as the Trustees may require.

He shall enter, in a book to be provided for that purpose, every book when received, its cost if purchased, or the name of the donor if given, and shall cause it to be properly numbered on the back of the cover.

He shall make an Alphabetical Catalogue of all books belonging to the Library, which shall be open to the public during the hours for the delivery of the books.

He shall acknowledge all gifts to the Library, as soon as they have been reported to the Trustees, and accepted by them.

He shall cause all books, pamphlets, maps, &c., belonging to the Library, to be marked or stamped with the words — "DANA LIBRARY, CAMBRIDGE."

He shall cause every volume intended for circulation to be neatly covered with suitable paper, and to have attached to it such rules as are needful to be known by those who take books from the Library; and no book shall be taken until it shall have been entered in the Catalogue, and covered and numbered.

He shall, once a year, immediately after the last Saturday in November, present to the Trustees a detailed report of the condition of the Library, embracing the number of volumes, and such other facts as the Trustees may require.

These rules and regulations, or any of them, may be repealed, amended, altered, or enlarged, at any legal meeting of the Trustees, by a majority of the whole number.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE LIBRARY.

In order that all who are entitled to the use of the Library may fully understand its arrangement, a statement of the system now adopted is here furnished.

The books are classified and arranged by Sections, Ranges, and Shelves. Each section (of which there are eight) is devoted to a single subject, as History, Poetry, Biography, Art and Science, Fiction, &c. Every section contains a certain number of ranges, and each range a number of shelves, as the shape and size of the room may permit.

The books on each shelf are numbered from one upward, so that at any time a book may be added to a shelf, by giving it the number next above that last given on the same shelf.

As far as possible the books are catalogued twice, — under the author, and under the title or subject; except, perhaps, in a few cases when the author and subject, being of the same name, would follow each other.

A List of the Periodicals and Public and Miscellaneous Documents belonging to the Library may be found at the end of the volume.

EXPLANATION OF THE NUMBERS GIVEN IN THE CATALOGUE.

The figure or figures on the right of the period or dot (.) denote the number of the book on the shelf; or books, if the work consists of more than one volume. The figure first on the left of the dot, denotes the number of the Shelf; the second figure denotes the number of the Range; and the third, that of the Section.

Example. — Page 75. "Early and Late Papers. W. M. Thackeray. 246.24." The figures on the right of the dot, point out the number of the book on the shelf. The figure first on the left of the dot denotes the number of that shelf; the figure second on the left denotes the number of the range; and the third figure denotes the section. The book, then, is in the second section, fourth range, and sixth shelf, and is numbered 24 on that shelf.

HOW TO GET A BOOK.

Having found the number attached to the book you want, take a slip furnished by the Librarian, and copy in the proper places your name and residence, from the card. Then enter in the appropriate place the number of the book desired, from the Catalogue; placing the figures before the dot in the first or left-hand column of the slip, and the figures after the dot, in the second column. If the work sought for is in more than one volume, state, in the third column, which volume you desire.

The slips will be furnished by the Librarian for home use.

The Letters "R. L." at the end of a title show that the work is for reference only, and cannot be taken from the Rooms, except upon certain conditions. (See No. VI. of the Rules and Regulations.)
